

Every change begins with butterflies in your tummy.
And it's in that fluttering that courage is born.
You have to step out to discover...
that we too have wings to soar into freedom.

