

The next day, Pipoca took off his shoes and socks and tossed them on the floor.

He left everything there, just like that, without hesitation.

— Now I have to go draw! — he thought, excited.

