

To my daughter,
who, with her creative little messes,
spread joy and love throughout the house.
Caring is being responsible for all the little things we love.

