

But he missed a step, on ground unsure,
And tumbled down into shadow obscure.
“Careful! Beware!” the darkness cried,
As growls and howls echoed inside.

But then through the air came a curious tune,
A melody soft, like a pull from the moon.
It shimmered with beauty, gentle and deep,
As if every note had a promise to keep.