

He landed below in a tunnel of gloom,
His fingers reached out through the shadowed room.
He moved with care, no path in sight,
His breath was tight, his chest held tight.

But then up ahead, a glimmering glow –
Could it be freedom? He hoped it so!
His heart eased up, relief was a vision,
Perhaps he'd escape from the tunnel of Oblivion.