

"Wow! I'm a dragon!" he cried in delight,
In wonder and awe at the magical sight.
"Could I breathe fire?" he thought with a grin,
And send a bright blaze from within?

He knelt by the shore and looked down below,
To find a reflection he ought to know.
But staring back with a startled gleam
Was a scaled, bright creature from some old dream.